Bangor Theological Seminary.
We are indebted to the attentions of Professor Pond for a Catalogue of the Bangor Theological Seminary for 1844.
The officers of the present year are as follows:

FACULTY.—Rev Enoch Pond, D. D. Professor of Systematic Theology; Rev George Shepard, Prof. of Sacred Rhetoric and Pastoral Duties; Rev Daniel Talbot Smith, Professor of Sacred Literature; ——— Professor of Ecclesiastical History—until this Professorship is provided for, the labors of it are sustained by Professor Pond.

A summary of the students is thus stated:

Resident Licenseates,	1
Senior Class,	13
Middle Class,	11
Junior Class,	16
	41

The Anniversary is on the last Wednesday of August.
There is library containing about seven thousand volumes; also a good reading room, abundantly furnished with papers.
The course of study we should think would be satisfactory; the expenses are small, and good facilities are furnished the students.
The catalogue concludes by presenting the following views of the wants of the institution:
There is needed a Chapel, to contain not only a place of worship, but also recitation rooms, and a room for the library.
There is needed the means of making gradual but continued accessions to the library.
The Professors need to be turned up, as soon as practicable, and placed on a permanent foundation.
In short, the Seminary needs, what was intended to be furnished for it some years ago, but what subsequent and unforeseen, and unavoidable events have in a measure frustrated—it needs an endowment. Its friends ought not to rest, nor its patrons to be satisfied, until this is furnished. Meanwhile it needs, and must have, the means of meeting its necessary current expenses, that it may pursue its course of usefulness unchecked.

To meet these necessities, the Seminary looks to the Congregational Churches and Societies of the State, to which it properly belongs, and for which it has furnished already so many valuable ministers. It looks to individuals in these Churches and Societies; and to benevolent individuals in other States. Some of these individuals can do much for it, while they live. Others can aid it essentially, at their decease.
Donors may appropriate their donations or bequest to some specific object in connection with the Seminary, or may place them in a general fund, to be disposed of at the discretion of the Trustees.

Concert.
The Concert by the Messrs Macomber on Wednesday evening was thronged to the utmost capacity of the city hall. More than a hundred persons left the door unable to obtain admittance. They will give another concert this evening, and will undoubtedly have a full house as their sweet singing is very pleasant.

The report of the Receiver of the North American Trust and Banking Company in New York, discloses the most wholesale frauds and downright villainies, involving about six millions of dollars, that has ever disgraced man in this or any country of the globe. This enormous sum has all been hoisted away and during the whole transactions, so black and abominable, concealment has been systematically resorted to, by swearing to false and fraudulent returns. Thomas G. Talmage was the President.

The Belfast Signal, in behalf of the new Engine company of that town, has signified acceptance of the invitation to visit this city for a pleasant trial of skill with our engine-men. It also politely extends an invitation to one or more of our Engine companies to visit that town. All very well and very good naturedly done. When the warm weather comes these matters will be attended to and done up in good style.

Santa Fe.
In relation to a recent meeting of the troops in that place, a letter published in the Boonville Observer, states that—
On November 8th the dragoons at Santa Fe were ordered to march to Comancha, which they refused to do until their wages should be paid. The amount of their wages had been placed in the hands of the officers, to be paid over to the soldiers, but the officers had refused to pay it over. The soldiers threatened that unless their wages should be paid, they would break open every store in the place. The cannon were then brought out, and an attempt made to force them into measures; when upon a fight ensued, in which several persons lost their lives. The soldiers became incensed at the traders, and swore vengeance against them. The traders became alarmed and armed themselves for defence in case of an attack.
The matter was settled, however, without any farther violence, and the soldiers went off singing and shouting, but were entertained that they would again return and commit some depredation.

The store of Mr Joel Davis, in Concord, Mass. was broken open on Sunday night and much wanton mischief done. Plates were broken and cast about the floor, together with fruit and confectionary. Some oranges and figs were stolen.

Arrival of Mr Pakenham.
The British Sloop of war Vestal, Captain Talbot, arrived at New York, Monday evening, having on board the Rt. Hon. Richard Pakenham, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary from the Court of St. James. The Vestal sailed on the 16th of January, and of course has brought no later news.
Mr Pakenham is charged with full powers to adjust the Oregon question.

The Augusta Age states as a rumor, that the nominations of Hon. John Anderson as Collector at Portland, and of Daniel C. Weston, Esq., as Postmaster at Augusta, have been, as we learn, reported upon unfavorably by the Committee of the Senate to which they were referred.

We are also informed that Mr Cummings will probably be restored to the Portland Collectorship, and possibly Mr Perkins to the Augusta Post Office.

The Portland Advertiser states that it is said that Mr Wise contenting himself with the endorsement of the Senate, which he has been very ambitious to procure, will not accept the appointment he has received. As late as Saturday he had not sent in his resignation to the House, and hence it was thought there was some reason for the rumor.

Buenos Ayer.
We learn from the Journal of Commerce, which has dates of Nov. 25, inclusive, that a heavy skirmish took place outside Montevideo on the 17th Nov. when Garibaldi and the young Italy men came in contact with Col Costa. The loss of the besieged in killed is supposed to be great. Col Neira, who got his friends into the scarp, lost his life.

Don Santiago Vasquez invited the British merchants of Montevideo to meet at his private residence, on the 21st, only 15 attended. The object was money, and Vasquez harangued the meeting at length, stating that intelligence had been received from Rivera, who, with a large force of cavalry was marching towards the town and might be expected in 6 or 8 days. That in the meantime the Government were in the greatest pecuniary distress, not having the means to provide rations for the troops of the garrison, the expense of which was 4000 dollars per diem; that on the arrival of Rivera a decisive battle would be fought. He, therefore, called upon the British merchants for pecuniary aid, offering to dispose of half the duties for the year 1845, or to sell the only property which the Government now held, viz: the House of Representatives, the Hospital of the Caridad, or the Ejercicios.

The former edifice, the Government were willing to dispose of for 40,000 dollars. All the rhetoric of Vasquez however proved unavailing, the merchants declined to assist, averring, that the British had been the greatest sufferers, and that some means should be devised to protect them from further losses.

A Card.
We, the subscribers, acknowledge with pleasure and gratitude, a very agreeable and interesting Donation visit from our brethren and friends, in which they contributed a variety of articles, very useful and acceptable, amounting to about $50.

Much was added to our enjoyment of the visit, by the very affectionate and cheerful appearance of the guests. It was truly gratifying to see the aged and the young, the rich and the poor, exchanging friendly greetings, and engaging in familiar conversation without any of those cold and formal distinctions which exist in many places.

We consider the visit in every respect, as a substantial token of the regard and friendship of our long-tried and much esteemed friends—While we shall remember with pleasure these practical expressions of affection from our dear friends, we sincerely pray that the blessings of Heaven may descend richly upon them.

Foreign Items.
We yesterday gave our readers the most important news received at New York by the last arrival. The news was highly important and our paper was sought with much eagerness. We give below further items of interest.

The Leeds Mercury says, that Lord Morpeth is about "to re-enter the field of active politics," the occasion of his re-appearance being an Anti-Corn-Law League dinner at Wakefield, on the 31st inst.

There is rather a humorous story in circulation in Dublin, respecting two of the twenty-four gentlemen whose names have turned up as the special jury to try the issue in the case of "The Queen vs. O'Connell and others." As soon as they ascertained on Friday that they were not struck off the list of forty-eight, but stood pretty high upon the reduced list of twenty-four, they decided, according to previous engagement, to pay a visit to foreign parts before the dread summons should be served. All the preliminary arrangements were completed, and the name of each packet was to have conveyed them from the Green Isle to some more civilized clime, but, alas, the Crown Solicitor was too quick in his movements, as was ascertained before the evening closed. In short, the summons were served in a few hours after the jury was struck. To prevent mistakes in a matter of such importance, the service in almost every instance was personal, and each summons contained an intimation that the presence of the recipient was solicited on pain of £200. It is needless to observe that the two contemplated travellers have changed their intentions.—Globe.

The Augsburgh Gazette, of the 3rd instant, in a letter from Rome, admits positively, that the marriage between the Queen Isabella of Spain, and the Count de Trapani, younger brother of the King of Naples, has been definitely arranged. This same Journal states, that the proposal for this marriage was supported by both the English and French Cabinets. The young prince is in his sixteenth year.

The following melancholy intelligence from the Russian frontier appears in the Frankfort Gazette:—"The ukaz, ordering the removal of the Jews from the frontier district into the interior is at this moment being carried into effect. Nearly one hundred thousand persons are effected by this measure. They receive passports which indicate their place of residence, and they are expected to have all their property sold out within a few days after."

According to a recent decision of the French Minister of war, no officer of the army shall in future obtain permission to marry unless the person to whom he is to be united should possess a revenue of at least 25,000 francs per annum.

Aggravated Meeting.—This assemblage was held this day in the music Hall, Lower Abbey street—The hall was crowded from an early hour. Amongst those present were Daniel O'Connell, Sir J. Esmonde, Sir J. Power, Sir Valentine Blake, and the Lord Mayor, who was called to the chair.

One of the principal speakers was Mr R. Shiel; and, after several addresses, the following resolutions were agreed to:—

Resolved, that we, the Roman Catholics of Ireland, yield to no portion of the Queen's subjects in true loyalty to the throne, or strict observance of the religious obligation of an oath.

That the officers of the crown, in striking from the special jury panel all the Roman Catholics who were placed thereon by ballot, have inflicted upon our body a wrong and an insult, and that it becomes our duty, in the face of the empire, to vindicate our character for worth, loyalty and honor.

Resolved, that the omission of sixty-three names of special jurors, including a large proportion of Roman Catholics, as well as moral protestants, making up the special jurors' list, affords grounds for more than suspicion that far dealing has not been practiced, and calls for a full parliamentary investigation.

That an humble petition be presented to the Queen praying her Majesty that she will be graciously pleased to direct her attention to the conduct of the Irish Government in carrying on state prosecutions under the circumstances aforesaid.

That a petition be presented to both Houses of Parliament, setting forth the facts embodied in these resolutions, and praying for enquiry into the facts.

It is now positively stated that a Chinese Ambassador, "a real live China mandarin," deputed by his Celestial Majesty, the imperial brother to the sun, and cousin-german to the moon, is about forthwith to exhibit his pig-tail and five clawed dragon, his peacock's feather and red button, among his blue ribbands, black rods, white sticks, and garters of the court of her Majesty, Queen Victoria.

The U. S. Sloop of war Boston.
Letters from officers of this vessel, commanded by Capt. Pendergast have been received in this city from Madeira. Sae had experienced a tremendous gale when a few days out of the port of Boston, whence she sailed. It was found necessary to throw several guns and a considerable weight of shot overboard to lighten the vessel during the storm, which continued for three days and nights with extraordinary violence. The death of a lad on board is mentioned, but his name, or the cause of his death is not mentioned. The damage sustained by the ship had been repaired.—[Phil. N. American.]

[From the National Intelligencer.]
We are requested to call the attention of THE WHIG PRESS to a subject deemed of great practical importance for the pending Presidential campaign, viz: That the press should urge upon all those who have occasion to give the names of prominent political men to the public, that they should always give their post offices, for the purposes of correspondence and to open the way for the circulation of documents. For example, we had last summer the names of gentlemen constituting the Georgia Whig State Convention, and the counties they represented, but not one of their respective post offices was given. Such cases are constantly occurring.—This fact is a distressing evil to those engaged in political correspondence, and in circulating political documents. It causes an immense abatement of the good that might be done, if their post offices were announced with their names. Let the press every where hammer this thought into the heads of all whom it may concern.

The article of Iron—Ought we to be dependent upon England for it?

The Protective Tariff is more frequently assailed in the article on iron, and articles made on iron, than on any other point. And perhaps, protectively speaking, the duty on iron is more indelensible, than on any other protected article.

is put down among all mankind, as a powerless, indolent, poverty-stricken nation, incapable of supporting its own life, whenever assailed, or blocked by others. Nor can it be doubted, that bread should be raised at home, by any and every nation it self, at any, and every cost,—for bread is justly called the staff of life.

Now, as it seems to us, what Bread is to animal life, Iron is to political, social, and national life. Iron is the staff of political, and national life,—for all the weapons of defence, the gun the bayonet, the sword, cannon are made of iron,—and, of social life, for the plow share, the Hoe, the shovel, the tool of all mechanical life is made of iron also. And we find no difficulty, therefore, on coming to the conclusion, that as bread is necessary to support our bodies, so iron is necessary to defend our rights, to redress our wrongs, to maintain our independence, and our social organization. In short, a nation without iron is as barbarous: People without it are barbarians.

The question then is, with a plenty of coal to smelt it,—are we to be dependent upon our great national rival, our quarrelsome enemy,—with whom we have already had two tough wars—for this essential element of political, national and social existence? We say, "no"—we repeat, "no," "no,"—and no matter what the cost—for it seems to us, it would be as wise to enlist the soldiers for our army in Cork, or Edinburgh, or Liverpool, and to take its officers from the British aristocracy, as to trust, for our weapons of offence and defence, to the mines of England, or of any other country.

There is little doubt that in levying a heavy duty on iron, and on iron-made articles just now, we are submitting to temporary pecuniary sacrifices,—but is not the sacrifices worth the while, we ask every American? Temporary sacrifice, we say,—for when the protective duty has been created, encouraged, and animated our own miners, and workers in iron, then their competition as in the case of cottons, will so reduce the price, as not only to make us independent of foreign nations but to give us cheaper iron and cheaper articles. The sacrifice is worth the while then for two reasons,—the first appealing to our patriotism, the next, to our interests.
